THE MIRACLE LAND.

Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard
One-half of the Miracle Land,
That lies just over the Waters of Life,
Just beyond its shoals, and its strand,
Where our tears change to pearls, our sufferings to joy,
Our dross becomes gold, without an alloy.

Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard
One-half of the mysteries there;
The pearly gates, with their legions of guards,
Or its blossoms and fruits so rare,
Of the pastures so green and the waters so still,
Where the sanctified host may wander at will.

Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard,
Scarce a note of the harmony sweet,
That echoes and rolls o'er mountains of bliss,
The blood-washed spirits to greet—
Who, weary of life, have severed its ties,
And mounted by faith to their homes in the skies.

Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard
But a tithe of the mystical lore, [meet
Of the country where prophets and patriarchs
To part from their kindred no more;
But dying, they left in letters of gold,
The blessed assurance—they're safe in the fold.

Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard,
But faith hath these mysteries scanned;
And folded its wings with the beautiful hope,
Of "that rest" in the "unknown land."
We shall go not out from that country so fair,
For sickness and death shall enter not there.

RADICAL ATTACKS ON GRANT—WENDELL PHILLIPS, TILTON AND OTHERS CHARGE HIM WITH DRUNKENNESS. — The Anti-Slavery Standard publishes the following characteristic letter from Wendell Phillips:

This is an anti-slavery journal. Looking out on politics as the negro looks on them, it deals with public men and measures only as they are true or false to him. But experience has abundantly proved even before the existence of the present administration, that only temperate men can be safely trusted with grave responsibilities. Temperance is the substratum of all other reforms. How sad the result, when power is given to men who are wont "to put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains," this war has most impressively shown us. Now rumors reach us from Washington, coming from different and trustworthy sources, that General Grant has been seen unmistakably drunk in the streets of that city within a few weeks. We know nothing ourselves of these rumors. We make no charges against General Grant in this respect. But even the possibility of the truth of these reports is of too momentous importance to be lightly dealt with. The nation is bound to inquire as to the habits of candidates for high office. After the experience of the last three years it has no right to run the slightest risk in this respect. No public man, whose friends are asking for him a high office, ought to complain of the strictest scrutiny by the public as to his habits in this particular. We call on the National and State temperance societies to investigate these reports. They have this subject in their special charge. They are bound to give us the facts, and save us from even the possibility of such another infliction as the nation now suffers. Especially we call on the Hon. Henry Wilson, a pledged teetotaller, to see that the whole truth in this matter is given to the country. He has devoted himself to the advocacy of Grant's claims. As a temperance man, he is bound to see that we run no risks of this kind. Living in Washington, he has ample means of knowing the truth as to this matter. If we are unnecessarily anxious, let him relieve us by trustworthy assurances that Grant is now a temperate man, fully capable on all occasions to withstand this temptation. If the fact is not so, let him explain to his temperance associates how he dares to ask their votes for Grant. It is perilous enough to give the Presidency to a man who was, confessedly, an inveterate drunkard two or three years ago. But it will be the gravest crime to give it to him if that vice still holds him in its iron grasp. Of course, fidelity to the negro must be our first and decisive test of any man's fitness for the Presidency. But this test of temperance is also vital.

WENDELL PHILLIPS.

Theodore Tilton, in his Independent makes a similar assault, but without calling Grant by name:

Under the roof of the National Capitol there is now very little intemperance, whether among Democrats or Republicans. Occasionally a Presidential candidate is seen fuddled in the streets; but, as this happens only on a Sunday, it cannot be said to interfere with public business, and does not strikingly challenge public attention. Besides, if a Vice President is druuk with a view to his inauguration, what shall restrain a Presidential candidate from a little tipeiness with a view to his nomination? One glass of wine poured down the throat of the next President of the United States, and making a hell in his blood, may give the whole nation the delirium tremens.

Mrs. Cady Stanton, in her paper called The Revolution, thus "walks into" Grant:

The talk is that a Cabinet officer called General Grant a "liar" and a "sneak;" that General Grant is drunk half the time, and has been seen steadying himself on another's arm in Pennsylvania Avenue; that Stanton and Washburne have humbugged him, and that he feels his degradation, and don't look anybody in the face. The talk is that Jay Cooke goes in for killing General Grant, and nominating Chase; that Chase don't get drunk, is a moral man, and liberal to loan agents and national bank men. The talk is that the people are sick of all politicians; that they don't see their temperance or morality in Washington; that they want a fresh deal now.

AN old woman was recently tried in England for feloniously taking a pair of boots, and the jury, to the amusement of the court and spectators, returned the following verdict: "Not guilty, but admonished never to do the like again."

A TEACHER, who, in a fit of vexation, called her pupils a set of young adders, on being reproved for her language, apologized by saying that she was speaking of those just commencing arithmetic.

A BOSTON paper intimates that since free soup was introduced in that city, the deposits in the savings bank have increased.

The Mate's Shot.

Mary Wortley was the daughter of a Nantucket sea captain—a stout, weather-beaten fellow who had followed the sea for many years. The girl was rosy-cheeked, red-lipped, light-footed, and her eyes shone like stars. Her form was plump, her smile bewitching.

Many of the young men in the Nantucket had gone almost crazy about her, and she had refused more than a dozen offers.

"Wait until you see Will Chase," said the skipper to her one day. "He will be here in the course of the week, to go with me as first mate in the Cumberland."

"Is he superior to any of the rest?" inquired Mary.

"Ay, ay, that he is," replied the skipper, striking the table in front of him a heavy blow with his fist. "There isn't a better sailor living; and in the whaling line, do you see, there's no one can dart a harpoon further."

Mary laughed mischievously.

"Excellent qualifications," she said, "although I don't see what they have to do with love."

"Humph!" he ejaculated, knocking the ashes from his pipe. "Ain't a strong arm and a quick eye something to do with it? What are you talking about?"

Mary laughed again, and just then seeing a tortoise-shell cat running past the open doorway, she darted off in chase. A minute later her playful laugh was heard ringing through the house.

A few days after, the merry laugh was again heard, when Will Chase, the captain's mate—a tall young man of twenty-five, almost as dark as an Indian, commenced making love to Mary in this strain:

"Hy, my pretty one, I never saw your like! Such a craft as you isn't often met with. Believe me, your skin is as white as a whale's tooth, and your lips as red as a piece of bunting!"

When the Cumberland set sail Mary was aboard. Her father, who had an eye to her marrying his mate, had persuaded her to accompany him on his two years' voyage.

Will was not a man to let such a chance slip through his fingers. He made love to Mary in his usual practical manner whenever opportunity offered, and flattered himself, because she listened to him kindly, that he was making good progress. In reality, however, she was secretly laughing at her business-like lover.

He would speak to her in glowing terms about the whales he had captured from time to time, naming the quantity of oil each had yielded him, and describing their various peculiarities. For instance, he said that one had a hump on his back as big as an oyster hill, and that another had broken his fluke (tail) by striking it too hard against a rock, and that another, a huge cow whale, had swollen enormously soon after being struck.

Sometimes while the mate was endeavoring, as he termed it, to make his way with Mary, a handsome fellow with a hawk-eye, black hair and clear complexion, would come aft from forward to coil a rope. Mary would often blush to encounter his admiring glance, for there was something in the expression of his face that she liked.

He was, in fact, the first man she had ever seen who could make her heart beat faster than usual.

She soon ascertained that his name was Hal Warland; that he was from New London, where for some years he had studied medicine with a Dr. Williams.

"Why he took a notion to go to sea," said the Captain, "is more than I can say. He ain't a lubber, for he l'arns fast; but then I don't see how such a prig could fancy blue water."

Seven days out, the wind blew great guns. With bow and windlass submerged, and roaring cataracts of water pouring over her, the Cumberland boomed along with the speed of a thunderbolt.

Mary was on deck, clinging to the weather-rail, when a great sea came tumbling over the ship, taking her off her feet. The mate and Hal Warland sprang simultaneously to save her. Hal proved himself the most active, reaching the girl first and throwing an arm around her waist while with his disengaged hand he clung to the rigging.

The sea passed to leeward, and the frightened girl, now smiling and blushing, thanked her preserver.

The mate frowned darkly.

"Go forward!" he cried sternly, glancing toward Hal.

The young man colored, but being a foremast hand, he must obey the officer.

Mary's eyes shone. She resolved to balk the mate.

"Wait a moment," she said to Hal, "until I tell father."

The young man bowed and stood motionless, and the girl entered the cabin.

Soon up came the skipper and grasped Hal's hand.

"You are a good lad," said he. "Come below and take a glass of gin."

The mate's face grew darker than before, which the captain noticed.

"You may come too," said he, aware that the first officer was very fond of gin.

Down they went into the cabin, and three glasses were soon filled.

"A toast!" said the captain, to which both young men unanimously responded, "Mary!" and drained their glasses.

"Ay, let us drink again to my future bride," said the mate, with a very red face.

"Your bride!" ejaculated Hal, involuntarily; "I was not aware ——"

"It is not so; Mr. Chase is mistaken," said a musical voice, and Mary stepped from an adjoining room, looking rosy and lovely enough to tempt an anchorite. Though not a sentimental girl, she was a fascinating one. All hands loved her, and would have gone through fire and water to serve her. Both the young men now took off their caps, blushing and somewhat embarrassed.

"How!—what mean you?" stammered the mate; "I thought you were willing to marry me."

"I never said so," was the reply. Then noticing the troubled expression of his face, added: "I respect and esteem you, sir, but never had the slightest intention of taking you for my husband."

Hal's cheek glowed, and his eyes brightened in spite of him.

The mate, noticing the look, flamed up like a volcano.

"Take that!" he cried, with an oath, throwing his glass into the face of his rival.

Instantly Hal sprang a step or two forward, striking the mate between the eyes.

The officer tumbled, but was soon on his feet. He rushed into his apartment, and the next moment re-appeared with a revolver, which he had ordered the steward to load several days before.

He raised it, aimed at the head of the man, and was pulling the trigger, when Mary threw herself between him and his intended victim.

Crash went the pistol; there was a gasping cry, and Mary, with blood-stained temple, dropped to the deck.

"Oh, God! my child! my child!" screamed the captain; "you have killed her!"

He threw himself down, and hung, sobbing and weeping, over the motionless girl. He pressed her head to his bosom; he called her by name again and again; it seemed as if his great heart would fairly burst with its load of anguish.

The two young men were also terribly affected. The mate, wild-eyed and frantic, seemed about to go mad; while Hal, with both hands pressed to his throbbing temples, gazed, horror-stricken, upon the white, blood-stained face.

Meanwhile, the stewart had rushed on deck, exclaiming that Mary was shot dead, and begging the other officers to come down. Soon the cabin was filled with mourners—with seamen, old and young, weeping or sighing over the ship's pretty favorite.

"It is an unlucky day," said one old sea-dog. "Poor Mary! poor girl! who'd have thought things would come to this pass?"

"My only child! my only one!" sobbed the skipper, still straining the blood-stained head to his brow, "Speak to me, Mary—speak!"

His eyes rolled wildly in his head, and a ghastly paleness passed over his face.

Then he folded his arms and lowered his head, his eyes still turned upon the face of his motionless girl.

"Dead! dead! dead!" he moaned. "She will never, never speak to me again."

Hal gently pushed him aside, examined the bleeding temple closely, then pressed his hand upon the heart, his face lighting up.

"Life!" he said, in a glad ringing voice. "She is not dead! she lives! her heart beats!"

A look of hope crossed the old man's face, but the next moment he looked despondent.

"Ay, it beats faintly," he murmured; "but how can the child live after a bullet has passed through her brain?"

"No bullet has touched her," answered the young doctor, pushing the hair from the temple and showing a slight contusion. "She is only stunned from being struck by the wadding in the pistol. The weapon could not have been loaded."

"Steward!" called the mate wildly, "steward, come here! Tell me that you did not load my pistol the other day when I ordered you to do, and you will make me your friend forever."

"I did not!" was the reply. "I could not find your bullets."

"Thank God!" ejaculated Chase.

How he fairly wept and sobbed for joy! Soon after Mary came to her senses, and was clasped in the arms of her happy parent.

Then Will Chase grasped the young doctor by the hand.

"I am no longer angry with you," said he; "a fortunate accident has saved me from committing a terrible crime, and there is not room in my heart for any other feelings than thankfulness and gratitude to my God. Take Mary for your wife; she has shown you that she was willing to die for you, and will therefore make a man of you."

There is little more to add. Hal married Mary when the voyage was over, and went to live with her in New London. He is now one of the leading physicians in that town, and with his kind, beautiful wife, is loved and respected by all.

A NEW AND EXPEDITIOUS METHOD OF COMPUTING PERCENTAGE.—To ascertain what is gained or lost per cent. by selling an article for which a specified sum has been paid, annex two cyphers to the difference between the cost and selling price, divide by the cost, and the quotient will be the loss or gain per cent. Paid 30 cents for a book, and sold it for 36 cents. What per cent. did I gain?

OPERATION:——36——Selling Price.
30——Cost.

ANOTHER METHOD.

Paid 80 cents for a book and sold it for 72 cents. What did I lose?

OPERATION:——80——Cost.

10 per cent. loss.

To ascertain for what an article which has cost a specified sum should be sold, so as to gain a proposed per cent. multiply the cost by 100 with the per cent. added, cut off two figures on the right, and the figures to the left will be the price for which the article should be sold. Paid 30 cents for a book. For how much must I sell it so as to realize 20 per cent. profit?

CONVERSATION is the daughter of reasoning, the mother of knowledge, the breath of the soul, the commerce of hearts, the bond of friendship, the nourishment of content, and the occupation of men of wit.

A NEGRO boy, about 18 years old, wanted to vote in his father's place. His father had died since he had been registered, and young hopeful imagined that he had succeeded to his father's rights.

"I DON'T like to patronize this line," said a culprit to a hangman. "Oh, never mind this once," was the reply, "it will soon suspend its operation."

Vows, made in storms, are forgotten in calms.

YOLO COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

SATURDAY, : : : : APRIL 18, 1868

The Railroad Bill.

We publish in another column of to-day's DEMOCRAT an Act to authorize the county of Yolo to give its bonds to the California Pacific Railroad Company, and commend it to the careful perusal of each of our readers. It is a matter of great importance to the people of the county, and as the election does not take place until the third Saturday of next month, there is ample time for every person interested—which includes every resident of the county—to thoroughly canvass the matter, and therefore be prepared to vote advisedly and understandingly on the day of election. Yolo county contains more acres of rich, grain-producing land than any other county in this State. Its average product per acre last year was nearly one hundred per cent. over that of any other county in the State, and of course our farmers, who comprise the bone and sinew—financially as well as literally—of the county, have prospered; yet many of them sold their crops of wheat immediately after harvest for from $1 50 to $1 75 per hundred, while others who held until later, realized $2 to $2 25—a wide difference—and had there been a certainty of farmers being able to deliver their crops, many more would have held until still later and realized still more enhanced prices for their great staple. The want of a sure, quick, and easy means of communication with the great market of the Pacific coast has long been felt, and such means has long been desired by all having personal interests in the matter, or from a desire for the advancement of the interest of the general public. An opportunity is now offered, and let the people judge whether the attainment of their ardent desires is worth that which it will cost.

We entertain a very decided opinion regarding this matter, and shall refer to it in future issues of this paper. At present we have no desire to intrude upon the public our views, preferring that each one should make up his mind from a careful, personal consideration of the matter. Then let every voter of Yolo county carefully consider the matter as he would an ordinary business transaction of a personal character, for each one has a personal interest in the question to be decided by the election of the 16th of next month. It is a question of personal advantage or disadvantage—a question of dollars and cents. The county of Yolo will derive great advantage from the result of that election, if we are right in our estimate of the feelings and wishes of a great majority of its people. If we are wrong, if the people of the county, blind to their own interests, by a majority vote decide to place impediments in the path of progress—in the road leading to their own prosperity—we shall regret such action, but not more than the men who, to-day, blind to their own interests, in a few years when the scales shall have fallen from their eyes will see and comprehend their great error and its unfortunate results.

THE CONTEST IN CONNECTICUT.—During the late election canvass in Connecticut the Radicals pressed into service an army of "speakers from abroad." The Pacific States were represented by J. W. Nye, of Nevada, Governor Wood, of Oregon, and George C. Gorham, of California. The Democracy met them at every point, excelling them in the quality if not in the number of distinguished speakers. The contest was the most exciting that has occurred for many years. The result is known. Connecticut still leads the Democratic column. The increased majority shows how the tide of public sentiment is setting, and that it cannot be restrained.

FOR CONGRESS.—It is thought that Frank Pixley will receive the Radical nomination for Congress in the First District. Frank is a fair exponent of the party, and has more ability than any other man they can name. It is also true that if there was a ghost of a chance for his election he could not get the nomination. It is the same in Oregon where Dave Logan, a man of undoubted ability, has been put up to be knocked down at the election. In this Congressional District Hartson appears to be the only Radical desiring nomination, while in the Second District there are a dozen or more patriots of the colored persuasion anxious to succeed Higby.

SPOKEN OF.—General Whallon, of Sonoma, and Senator Pendegast, of Napa, are the most prominent candidates for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this District. Geo. Pearce, of Sonoma, is also mentioned, and J. A. Johnson, the present incumbent, may also come before the Convention.

PERILOUS ATTEMPT.—The little schooner "Jabez Howes" sailed one day last week for Sitka. She is of thirteen tons burthen, about the size of a ship's long-boat. The bold mariner who navigates her receives five hundred dollars for the trip from San Francisco to Sitka.

REVOKED.—The order from Military Headquarters, assigning General Halleck to the command of the Fifth Military District, has been revoked, and he will remain in command of the Department of the Pacific.

SCHLINKE, who robbed a woman in San Francisco, of $1,700, and skedaddled, has been caught and the money recovered. Schlinke says he is sorry. Very likely, after being caught.

THE LICK HOUSE, in San Francisco, is to be closed. The lessees cannot afford to pay the rent demanded. The furniture will be sold on the 20th inst.

Go Slow.

Appalled by the danger with which the liberties of the people are threatened by the arrogant assumptions of authority by the Radical leaders, or disgusted by their base surrender and barter of principle, of manhood and honor, for their personal advantage, for the purpose of obtaining a renewal of their lease of power and place, both of which they have prostituted for the attainment of ignoble ends, tens and hundreds of honest-hearted thinking men are leaving the Republican organization, finding it incompatible with their conscientious views of political honesty and the safety of Republican liberty to longer uphold and maintain political knavery, unblushing corruption and usurpation of power dangerous to the liberties of the people.

Small-beer politicians of the Radical stripe, toadies of the would-be assassins of the people's liberties, and tide-waiters, holders of small sinecure offices—the duties of which are nominal and the stealings proportionately large—make great ado about these defections, as they term the actions of these men. They are called traitors, and threatened with political vengeance for the future, and are the recipients of present enmity, slander and vituperated abuse. But as yet we have to find the first one of the many who have avowed their intention no longer to give aid and comfort to the enemies of the people, who fears their threats or values their love or hatred. The ball is steadily rolling on; the Democratic host is receiving and welcoming daily the true and brave-hearted who have resolved to release themselves from the thralldom of false guides and leaders. Men who have thoughtlessly advanced to the brink of the precipice, and starting back appalled at the imminent danger which threatens themselves and the country, resolve to atone for past errors and strive to undo the mischief which they have unconsciously aided and abetted. We would advise our Radical friends to "go slow;" be not so hasty in your denunciations and threats; they accomplish nothing, as no one fears or cares for them, and they are evidences of weakness and impotency. Honest, intelligent, thinking men are not to be turned aside from the course indicated by the index of honesty, by a gibe, nor deterred by threats. The world is moving in the right direction, and Democratic principles keep pace with the progress of the age.

LATEST NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.—We are indebted to the Capital Reporter for the following news:

The impeachment is progressing slowly. Counsel for defense on Thursday, stated that the documentary evidence was all in, and that they would at once proceed with oral testimony. The President's message of February 24th, was rejected as evidence. The subject of admitting additional counsel to participate in the closing arguments was rejected.

There has been another terrible railroad accident, occurring on the Erie Railroad, near Fort Jarvis. A rail broke, precipitating five cars, including three sleeping cars, down an embankment one hundred feet. One of the cars took fire, and thirteen passengers were burned to death. No full list has been obtained of the killed and injured. It is said to be one of the most terrible accidents that ever occurred on American railroads.

REPEALED.—Congress has repealed the law taxing manufactured goods, with the exception of a tax upon distilled spirits, tobacco, gas, spices, and a few other articles of luxury. The tax on petroleum is reduced one-half, and, in lieu of the taxes previously collected on articles now exempted, a tax of two dollars per thousand on the sales of manufactures amounting to over five thousand dollars in one year is levied. This amounts to one-fifth of one per cent., an immense reduction on the five per cent. tax which has heretofore been collected. The new law is to go into effect on the first of next month. This is good news to the consumer as well as to the manufacturer.

THE Alta says: "Chief Justice Chase may well ask himself what great crime he has committed that he should be praised by his enemies." To be sure! The crime he has committed is the showing of a regard for the solemn oath he subscribed to when entering upon the duties of his high office—and a great crime it is in the eyes of the Radical admirers of the aromatic Ethiopian.

RAILROAD LAW.

AN ACT to authorize the County of Yolo to give its Bonds to the California Pacific Railroad Company, a corporation organized and working by and under the general Railroad laws of this State, and to provide for the payment of said bonds; approved March 24, 1868.

The People of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The Board of Supervisors in and for the county of Yolo are hereby authorized and required to issue the bonds of the county of Yolo as a donation, for the purpose of aiding in the construction of the California Pacific Railroad from Putah creek to Washington, and from Putah creek through Woodland to Knight's Landing, in Yolo county.

SEC. 2. The bonds that are authorized to be issued under this Act shall not be issued unless upon a proposition to issue said bonds being submitted to the electors of Yolo county, at a special election to be held for that purpose, on the third Saturday of May, eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, the majority of the electors voting upon said proposition shall be in favor of issuing said bonds; and it is hereby made the duty of the Board of Supervisors of said county to submit to the qualified electors at said election the proposition to issue said bonds. Those voting for said proposition shall have written or printed on their ballots, "County bonds in aid of the California Pacific Railroad Company—Yes," and those voting against said proposition shall have written or printed on their ballots, "County bonds in aid of the California Pacific Railroad Company—No." Said vote shall be canvassed by the Board of Supervisors of said county at their next meeting after the said election, and the result of said voting shall be entered upon the records of the said Board; and if said proposition shall receive a majority of said votes cast in favor thereof, it shall be their duty to issue said bonds; and if a majority of said votes are cast against said proposition, it shall not be lawful to issue said bonds.

SEC. 3. If the majority of said votes shall be found in favor of the issue of said bonds, it shall be the duty of the said Board of Supervisors to have prepared county bonds to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, each of said bonds being for the amount of one thousand dollars, payable twenty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, payable annually on the first day of January in each year, the principal and interest payable in gold coin of the United states at the office of the County Treasurer of said county.

SEC. 4. None of the said bonds shall be issued unless within eighteen months from the said third Saturday of May, eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, the road of the said company shall be completed in good running order from Vallejo, in Solano county, to Washington, in Yolo county, and from Putah creek, crossing the Willow Slough west of Dr. Merritt's residence on said slough; thence through the town of Woodland to Knight's Landing, in Yolo county, with a depôt at each of said towns; and said bonds shall bear date of the day of such completion. Coupons for the interest shall be attached to each bond.

SEC. 5. The bonds and their coupons shall be consecutively numbered, [and] signed by the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, the County Treasurer and County Auditor; and when so signed, the County Clerk shall countersign said bonds and affix thereto the seal of the County Court of said county, [and he] who shall thereafter deliver the same to the Chairman of the said Board of Supervisors; and the fact of such signing, attestation and sealing shall be entered upon the records of said Board of Supervisors, and the said bonds and coupons shall therefrom be delivered by the said Clerk to the President of the said California Pacific Railroad Company, taking his receipt therefor containing a description of said bonds, in the book of records of the proceedings of the said Board of Supervisors, at a regular meeting of the said Board.

SEC. 6. It shall be the duty of the said Board of Supervisors of said county, and they are hereby authorized and empowered, to levy a yearly tax, to be styled the "Interest Fund tax," on the assessed property of said county sufficient to pay the yearly interest on said county bonds, and five per cent. of the principal thereof, to constitute a "Sinking Fund," the same to be assessed and collected at the same time and in the same manner as the other property taxes assessed and collected; and the Treasurer of said county shall pay, or cause to be paid, out of said Interest Fund, the interest on the said county bonds as it falls due; and the said five per cent. shall be set apart as a Sinking Fund for the redemption of said bonds. Whenever the amount to the credit of the said Interest Fund shall equal or exceed two thousand dollars, the Treasurer shall apply the same to the purchase of said bonds from the lowest bidder (provided the same shall be offered at a price not exceeding the par value thereof), upon advertising for twenty days in some newspaper published in said county of Yolo for bids. But if none of said bonds are offered at par, or under, then it shall be the duty of the said Treasurer, with assent and approval of the said Board, to loan the amount standing to the credit of the said Sinking Fund at interest, upon said county bonds, in bonds of this State, or bonds of the United States, payable in gold coin, giving preference in the order named. The said Interest Fund and Sinking Fund shall not be appropriated or applied to any other purposes than those specified in this section.

SECTION 7. It shall be unlawful for the said California Pacific Railroad Company to charge more than nine cents in United States gold coin per mile for each ton of freight transported on its road; provided, that in no case shall the said company be required to receive less than twenty-five cents for any one lot of freight for any distance.

TOWN AND COUNTY MATTERS.

WRITING SCHOOL.—The present term of Prof. Buck's writing school will close on Monday evening next. The new term will commence on Wednesday evening, 22d inst., at the District School House. The prizes for proficiency during the closing term will be awarded on Monday evening. Those who have taken lessons under Prof. Buck, in Spencerian penmanship, have made rapid progress, and there is every reason to believe that his patrons in the future will be guaranteed the same valuable improvement as that displayed by those who have already finished their course of instruction.

HORSE STEALING.—On Monday last, a man named Hudson, not unknown to fame in the criminal records of this State, and one "Bob," who has recently been employed in the slaughter-house of James Asberry, obtained a saddle horse each, for a trip to Willow Slough. Nothing has since been heard of men or horses. Warrants were issued on Wednesday for the arrest of the parties, but the officers have as yet failed to find them.

ANNIVERSARY.—The Forty-ninth Anniversary of the introduction of Odd Fellowship in the United States, occurring on Sunday the 26th instant, in accordance with the recommendation of the W. M. G. M. of the State of California, the day will be observed by Woodland Lodge, No. 111, as a day of thanksgiving. Services will be held at the M. E. Church at 11 o'clock, A. M. Rev. W. C. Curry will preach a thanksgiving sermon.

ORGANIZED.—R. C. Gaskill, Deputy H—Y—, was in town this week, and, it is said, organized a dark-lantern lodge of "Freedom's Defenders." Their meeting was secret, as also their place of meeting. We are not posted regarding the number "roped" in, but think the list not long. In fact we believe they might be comfortably stowed in a good-sized wardrobe.

GONE EAST.—Fisher and family and the wife and daughter of Hon. J. M. Kelley, departed on Monday last for the East. Fisher and family have gone to remain, while Mrs. Kelly and daughter will make a visit to the old home and old friends, and then return. We wish them a pleasant visit, and, in common with all their friends, hope for their quick return.

GRAIN PROSPECT.—The prospect of a heavy crop of wheat and barley was never before so promising. The area sown is greater than ever before, and every acre indicates a heavy yield. The only danger to be apprehended is that the great growth of straw may cause some fields to "fall," or "lodge," which would cause additional expense in harvesting.

OBLIGATION.—The printers of the DEMOCRAT office are under obligation to Joseph I. Heath, of the Railroad Exchange, for refreshments in the shape of crackers and sardines, furnished the other evening when the "press" of work was heavy on the boys. Come and see us often, Joe!

FITTING UP.—The new brick extension of Baker's Hotel is rapidly approaching completion, and in a few weeks will be ready for occupation. The first floor will be used as an office in front, and a large, airy dining room in the rear. The upper floor will contain ten fine bed rooms.

LOCATED.—W. W. Burnett, late of this place, has located in Santa Cruz with intentions to practice his profession as attorney and counselor at law. We wish him all the success which he merits, and if our wish is gratified, Burnett will have hosts of clients and plenty of coin.

NEW DRUG STORE.—Elliott's new store is nearly completed, and the proprietor has gone below for stock. It will be in running order about the first of May. The store is handsomely fitted up, and would be an ornament to any town or city in the State.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES.—The Democratic primary elections for delegates to the County Convention to be held one week from to-day, April 25th, takes place to-day. We are informed that the polls in this precinct will be held in the Club-room.

ROBBED.—The cabin of "Father" Maddox was entered on Sunday evening last, while the owner was attending church, and robbed of $12. This is the second time within a year that the old gentleman has been robbed of his scattering coin.

THE members of the M. E. Church Sunday School will have a pic-nic on the first day of May. Friends wishing to participate will meet at the M. E. Church at 9 o'clock, A. M., and repair to the grove near L. D. Beckett's residence.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—The Democratic County Convention occurs next Saturday, the 25th. The District Court Room is, we believe, the place designated for the meeting of the delegates.

NEW BOARDING HOUSE.—C. Huston advertises the opening of a new boarding house at the place recently occupied by E. H. Warren as a furniture store. "No Chinamen employed.

YOLO COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

Try to Be Cheerful.

We always should try to be cheerful,
Whatever our life's lot may be;
It needs but a little exertion
To keep the heart happy and free.
Though dark clouds of gloom hover o'er us,
We need not to sink in despair;
There's nought to be had from repining,
Which makes worse the ills we've to bear.

The pathway of life is so varied,
So mingled with hopes and with fears,
No wonder we often feel weary
Of threading its lab'rinth of cares.
But it is unworthy our manhood
To think we shall never get through,
While there is a Heaven above us,
And always above to look to.

Life is blended with pleasure and sorrow—
We must have the smile and the tear;
There's always a something to try us,
And yet there's a something to cheer.
O'er every ill we shall triumph,
If we but enact well our part;
It matters not what may befall us,
If we but try to keep a glad heart.

Brick Pomeroy Describes Pittsburg.

Pittsburg is a pretty place! A nice city, enchanting in its purity! The pilgrim who doth first approach its pitts and burghs is startled to see a mountain of black smoke rising to the clouds, like a nigger on his bureau! To enter the city by cars seems like riding a nightmare into some cellar where the devil keeps his "blackest nights."

The shrill whistle of the engine—the half puzzled look of passengers reminded us of a lot of chaps just entering Tophet. Winking and looking into the mass of smoke, we see on every side tall chimneys, from the top of which leap, dart and flare sheets of flames from the furnaces of the rolling mills and iron works which hem the city like a chain guard of red-headed nigger soldiers on picket duty.

The old lady described Pittsburg to a dot! In all save its politics, and that is more so! The smoke seems to have struck in.

Pittsburg people never have fresh air, except when out of town. They live on coal smoke and floating cinders. We inhaled seven tons of coal the first hour we were there. The people breathe smoke, eat smoke, chew smoke, and carry it loose in their pockets. It is seventy-two years since Pittsburg has been warmed or reached by the sun's rays. Once a streak of sunshine, for several years condensing, undertook to penetrate the fearful cloud of smoke over the city, got lost, became smoked, and fell like a standing edition of the Black Crook or Rump Congress!

The ladies use smoke and coal dust to protect their complexion. Little boys and girls stand on the corners with wet brooms and sponges to wash people's faces for five cents. Everybody is of a color in Pittsburg. At the post-office window the clerk distinguishes people by certain signs, it being impossible to see their faces for the layers of coal dust and smoke. We saw a little boy crying in the streets because he had lost his father, who was six feet ahead of him in the blackness. The tears had run down the little chap's face till lost in the smoke banks, making his countenance to resemble the steep mountain, adown whose sides the drove of swine promenaded into the sea.

Every one wears mourning in Pittsburg. A barber once went there to color hair and whiskers. He more'n busted in a week! Men kiss each other's wives in Pittsburg, unable to tell which is their own only by the taste. Women send children on errands, first writing on their faces with a thumb nail or wet stick! People feel their way by door knobs, and read by raised type. A man once stood in his room with the window raised—changed his shirt nine times in four minutes and only got a clean one on him when the window fell by accident and kept the smoke out. Meet a man with a cold who has been blowing his nose, and that organ looks like a burnt stump, each side of which a woodchuck had been burrowing! A working man's face in the summer looks like a map of Africa cut in sections by streams of perspiration; or like the diagram of the Catawessa Railroad, which is so crooked the head light is placed on the rear of the train! A white man there once accused his wife of presenting him with a nigger baby—she proved her innocense of so loyal a "whose bin here" by plunging the little innocent into a cistern, with a lantern tied to its neck. The husband saw dimly, recognized Saxon cuticle, clasped his wife to his bosom, and held her there so long in joyful embrace that the little cuss in the cistern was drowned; the lamp went out, and the boy was lost forever!

We saw a woman moved but gently to tears—her face looked like a black marsh, or the forty million a year sinking fund under the Bureau! Bed clothes are unknown in Pittsburg—leave the window open and sheets of smoke settle upon you like newspapers from a machine press! Some years since some snow fell into the city through the cloud of smoke, the smoke was not hurt, but the snow looked sick! Men carry lanterns to see to shake hands. When looking at a watch to see the hour, it is the fashion to light a match. They make black broadcloth by hanging a spider's web out till filled with smoke, and use hot coal dust for black pepper. They roll the smoke sweetened, into sticks, and sell it for liquorice.—[La Crosse Democrat.

THE Oshkosh Times gives us the following Black Crook story: "My dear," said the wife, "the Black Crook is here; shall we witness it to-night?" "Well," said the husband, "I had better go alone to-night and see if it is a proper place for ladies." "Yes—well," said the wife, "I rather guess I'd better go alone and see if it is a proper place for gentlemen!" Both went.

A CHINESE widow, fanning the tomb of her deceased husband, being asked the cause of so singular a mode of showing her grief, accounted for it by saying that he had made her promise not to marry again while the mortar of his tomb remained damp; and as it dried but slowly, she saw no harm in aiding the operation.

"WELL, uncle, do you see any particular difference in neighbor Pearce since he joined the church?" "Oh, yes," was the reply, "a great difference. Before, when he went out into his garden on Sunday, he carried his garden tools on his shoulder; now he carries them under his overcoat."

BETHEL, Connecticut, has neither rumshops, paupers, poor-house nor town debt—things which generally go together. The absence of the first, however, is the absence of all.

THE King of Greece walks to church. He ought to be ashamed of himself, when there are so many jackasses willing to draw him.

IF a small boy is a lad, a big boy must be a ladder.

The following test for qualification to participate in the election of Delegates, was adopted:

All voters opposed to the Radical policy of Congress, to Negro or Chinese suffrage, and in favor of a Constitutional administration of the Government of the whole Union, shall be entitled to vote for Delegates.

The Central ommittee urgently request the different county ommittees of the Democratic Party to call their County Conventions for the election of Delegates at as early a date as possible, and to forward to Thos. N. Cazneau, Secretary of the State Central Committee, at the Rooms of the Committee, 321 California street, a full list of their County Committees, officers and members.

The following was unanimously adopted by the Central Committee, and directed to be published for the acceptance of County Committees:

Resolved, That it is recommended to the County Committees that, in their calls for County Conventions, the Delegates elected to the State Convention constitute Congressional Conventions, to meet at the same time and place, to nominate candidates for Congress for their respective Districts, if such are to be elected, and to appoint District Committees for each Congressional District.

The State Central Committee deem it eminently proper that, in the discharge of their duties to the great majority of the people of the State of California, who are united under the time-honored political organization which the Committee represent, as well as to the great Conservative masses of our people, to express their sentiments upon the momentous issues now threatening the stability of our Government, and have unanimously adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Radical majority in Congress, instead of seeking to lighten the burdens of taxation, disregarding both the will of the people and their official oaths in an unnatural pursuit after Negro Equality, having been laboring to usurp the functions of the Executive, degrade the Judiciary, and after committing the indecency of forcing upon the President a Cabinet officer personally offensive to him, and making a military subordinate independent of the orders of the President, thus uniting in their own hands the purse and the sword, they have for the first time presented to the world the disgraceful spectacle of an American President arraigned by a party vote, avowedly for party purposes, before a Senate, more than two thirds of which is composed of his political opponents, and placed on trial for no crime except that of having endeavored to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States and the liberties of the people; that in these proceedings the Radical party in Congress have been manifestly actuated by a desire to perpetuate themselves in office, and merit the unqualified condemnation of all good citizens, without distinction of party.

Resolved, That this Committee view with sincere alarm the revolutionary action of the Radical majority in Congress, condemned in the foregoing resolution, believing the same calculated to create wide-spread distrust, and seriously derange the other great interests of the country.

The State Central Committe desire to impress upon the Democratic and Conservative voters of the State the necessity of assembling in their various localities, to form Clubs, and to take active measures for the approaching political campaign that the rights of the people may be preserved, the Constitution upheld, and the Union again united.

By order of the Democratic State Central Committee. J. P. HOGE, President.
THOS. N. CAZNEAU, Secretary.

Fifteen Years Monopoly!

The subscriber offers for sale the right to put down T. S. LEWIS'
PATENT TUBE WELLS,
in the several unsold county rights in this State, to wit: Yolo, San Joaquin and Sacramento counties. By the use of this Tube, a Well is obtained at less than one-tenth the labor of digging. The Wells are permanent, convenient, require no cleaning, and will endure for ages without cost for repairs.

Any man with the will and strength to wield a sledge-hammer, can, unaided, make from $16 to $60 per day, every day he may labor, at putting down these wells, and have a county monopoly for fifteen years and three months. The patent was issued in May last, as an improvement on all Tubed Wells. In nine months' time it has been introduced, and is now in use in every State in the Union, excepting Nevada and Oregon. The Well can be seen and tested in this city.

For particulars, call on the subscriber, corner of 8th and Brannan streets, San Francisco, or address through post-office.
